

BioEffect brings modern molecular microbiology and biotechnology techniques to the agriculture sector to offer real-time methods that identify biologicals directly in soils and plants.

This technology saves companies millions by disqualifying irrelevant products. Ensuring the right biological products are on the market provides farmers with reliable alternatives to displace chemical products, reducing chemical residues from land, soil, and food.

AARHUS HUB

Enabling superior next-generation biological products to remove the need for chemical usage

Sabrina M Pittroff

Sustainable Agriculture

CONTACT

